WELFARE BOARD MAKES STATEMENT OF PLANS FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

Mrs. Lulu Boyd Stevens Gives Following Report

WHILE ONLY an adjustment in the Children's Home of Southern Alameda County was being made so that the overhead would not exceed the financial possibilities, an erroneous statement was made, by uninformed persons, of abandoning the home. The home cannot be abandoned; it is as essential to these underprivileged children as your home or mine is to us.

Hence the Financial Committee held a meeting at the Women's Improvement Club rooms in Livermore on October 2, 1930, and with a fine representation from each township, discussed matters thoroughly. These are the facts that are being faced by this splendid group of workers, which are not only their responsibilities and privilege, but yours and mine; in fact, the responsibility and privilege of each individual of Southern Alameda county.

Communities have had a mistaken idea that we are caring for one, five or six children at a time in Niles Welfare Home, and that all the money goes for its upkeep and maintenance. There are one hundred under-privileged children in Southern Alameda county, who are in our receiving home, foster homes, and a few in homes of their mothers' whose fathers have deserted them. The county pays twenty dollars per month to each foster mother, which is little enough for twenty-four-hour service. These foster mothers have to give their services in sickness that may come at any time, and also try to help adjust the child not only to itself but to the community.

Then there are extras which are not included in the twenty dollars. We have approximately estimated this to be $1.50 per month per child. These extras include haircuts, shoe repairing, clothing, and extra milk. Therefore, with one hundred underprivileged children in our department at $1.50 per child per month, we have to raise $1,800 for this item alone for the year. County of Alameda pays $20 to the foster mothers.

Now, we do have the splendid cooperation of Mission San Jose Convent for Girls and St. Vincents Orphanage, at San Raphael, for boys, and we use these institutions right along, but they place a limit as to age, health conditions, and possible delinquency—consequently necessitating a receiving home that is also an adjustment home for studying these children either in regard to mentality, health, or some peculiar personality. This is our purpose, always to fit the home to the child, and not the child to just any home we may have.

Up to now in our receiving home we have not paid a house mother, due to Mrs. Anna King's interest She no longer can shoulder this burden, so we are compelled to raise sufficient funds to pay a nominal salary for a matron or house mother. Amount of salary has not been determined.

Other than the salary for the house mother and the eighteen hundred dollars for extras for these one hundred children, its cost for actual operation and maintenance of the receiving home is $1440.

There are four townships that are privileged to shoulder this splendid work, Pleasanton, Murray, Washington and Eden.

Eden Township hopes to make up its appropriation through the community chest if it reaches its goal. If not there will be a continuous drive all year, as we have the children to care for whether the community chest carries on or not. Organizations will receive letters through representatives in all four townships; individuals will be called on. Everyone is asked to give as liberally as possible, remembering it is a responsibility of your community, and its less fortunate children.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

GLORIOUS PRE-VOLSTEAD DAYS!

NOT LONG AGO a man, whose sincerity we could not question was deprecating the widespread use of liquor by the youth of today, attributing this deplorable condition to the Eighteenth amendment.

The writer must admit that flasks are packed by many young boys of high school age, and the bottle often shared by girl companions. It is a bad situation. But let us not blame this on prohibition. Bad as the situation may be, it is nothing in comparison with the general use of alcohol in the days when we were a young man. We remember well, as if it were yesterday, back in Nebraska in those "good old days of licensed saloons" how every dance nearly ended in a riot, with half the dancers drunk. Well we remember those good old German picnics out at Sturgeon's Grove, near Columbus, on Sunday afternoons when practically every man, woman and child was imbibing beer and whiskey, and before midnight the orgy of drunkenness would put to shame a Bacchanalian banquet of Roman days. Yes, friends, in those days, under the glorious banner of the saloon, practically every business man in our town every so often was literally carried home from the corner saloon by his humiliated children.

We, reaching young manhood a little later, as foreman of a number of newspaper composing rooms, had the very delightful experience of just about every day dragging one or more of our men from the neighboring bar and begging them to keep sober until the "rag" was out. It was a lovely experience, we may assure you, with no dependability to be placed on the workmen under us. That was in those days when a man could go a few doors down the street and get a drink and be "satisfied," you know, and not be a hog with a bottle on his hip.

Time went on, dear reader, and prohibition came to us. Composing room trouble of this nature practically ceased. Men who formerly did not have a change of shirts, soon after were driving cars, and if married, giving their families a decent living, and some of the few luxuries of life.

Yes, when we hear these people tell us about the bad condition under prohibition, we wish that they might have followed us through per-Volstead days, and then we are sure they would find a better argument to offer for the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment to the Federal constitution—one of the greatest, if not THE greatest, social and economic reforms of the century—or keep their peace.

BIGGER NILES WITH BRIGHTER SHOES

WE THINK there is a great opening for a bootblack in Niles. If some enterprising native fails to see this great commercial possibility, we are going to try and get Amos and Andy to send Lightning out here to fill the vacuum. But all humor aside this town needs a good bootblack. Our shoes go unpolished until business takes us to the bustling metropolis of Hayward. We like to keep our nickles and dimes at home.

Cannot the Niles Chamber of Commerce appoint a committee to look into this serious breach in our tonsorial facilities, and overcome another barrier on our torturous road upward.

Come, all together for a bigger Niles with brighter shoes!

Today's Scripture LESSON

By Rev. John R. Stevenson

Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you; but rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings.—I Peter IV 12, 13.

We take with solemn thankfulness
Our burden up, nor ask it less,
And count it joy that even we
May suffer, serve, or wait for Thee,
Whose will be done!

Mrs. Jean LaCome, of Centerville, was in charge of all arrangements for the party, and a great deal of its success is attributed to her untiring efforts.

NASH
Announces . . .
3 new EIGHTS and a new SIX

NEVER was such motor car quality offered at prices so sensationally low. The literally startling difference becomes at once apparent when you contrast the prices of the new and finer Nash series, with prices of corresponding models a year ago.

Its low non-productive overhead, its elimination of borrowed capital, and remarkably foresighted manufacturing alone enable Nash to offer so much for so little. The unique example in value-giving thus provided the industry was planned last November. At that time, C. W. Nash and the strong group of executives surrounding him, clearly foresaw present conditions. They at once began to design cars affording value so great, so unmistakable, as to overcome all buying reluctance.

The result is instantly apparent. Even casual inspection of the four new Nash cars establishes the fact that nothing even remotely approaching them in downright dollar value has ever been available in their respective price fields.

SENSATIONALLY PRICED!

STUDY THESE SENSATIONAL PRICES!

Compare what is probably the most remarkable achievement of Nash in greater value-giving—the New Six—with the Single Six it succeeds. The new Six offers a multitude of superiorities—at prices which range from $160 to $140 below the prices of the Single Six.

Body Style	The New Six W. B. 114¼"	Last Year's Six W. B. 114¼"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$845	~~$1005~~	—$160
Coupe	$795	~~$940~~	—$145
Coupe (rumble seat)	$825	~~$980~~	—$155
Sedan (2-door)	$795	~~$935~~	—$140

Compare the New Eight-70 with its two additional cylinders, its longer wheelbase, its larger, more luxurious body, with the six-cylinder car it replaces. Then consider the remarkable fact that there is actually a basic price differential in favor of the New Eight!

Body Style	The New Eight-70 W. B. 116¼"	Last Year's Six W. B. 114¼"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$995	~~$1005~~	—$10
Coupe	$945	~~$940~~	+$5
Coupe (rumble seat)	$975	~~$980~~	—$5
Special Sedan (4-door)	$955

Compare the New Twin-Ignition Eight-80 Series with the 6-cylinder car it replaces. The Eight-80 is larger, longer. Design, appointments, upholstery are finer—prices are radically lower.

Body Style	The New Twin-Ignition Eight-80 W. B. 121"	Last Year's Twin-Ignition Six W. B. 118"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$1295	~~$1415~~	—$120

Coupe (rumble seat)	$1285	~~$1395~~	—$110
Town Sedan (4-door)	$1375

Compare the New Twin-Ignition Eight-90 Series, now with a 115 H. P. Engine, with the last year's 100 H. P. Eight. Body appointments are finer, upholstery more luxurious, and prices are far lower!

Body Style	The New Twin-Ignition Eight-90 W. B. 124"-133"	Last Year's Twin-Ignition Eight W. B. 124"-133"	Price Difference

TWO CASES TRIED IN CENTERVILLE COURT TUESDAY

David Yockey Fined $50 On Charge Of Speeding

David Yockey, Hetch Hetchy employee at the Mission San Jose project, was arraigned before Judge Allan G. Norris at Centerville Justice court last week on a charge of speeding. He was fined $50.

According to reports the car Yockey was driving had been borrowed from a friend, who was said to be in the county jail on a charge of stealing the same car. Judge Norris was lenient with the defendant when evidence showed that the man had lost his job and was unsuccessful in obtaining another due to his recent escapade.

Another case decided by Judge Norris was that of A. Headwell, of Oakland, who was said to be under the influence of liquor when arrested for driving on the wrong side of the street by Traffic Officer Duffey Lewis. He was fined $25.

FORD HEADLIGHTS NOW FITTED WITH REGULAR BULBS

An announcement has been made by local garagemen to the effect that Ford headlights can now be tested in the regular manner. Formerly Ford lights were fitted with 21-21 candle power bulbs, and only today was it made known that they could be supplanted by 32-32 candle power bulbs.

At the present time there are only twelve makes of motor cars allowed to use 32-32 bulbs. The latter give more light, and the stronger illumination is a great factor in extensive night driving. Drivers of cars with the old lights are advised to have lights retested, and outfitted with the later type of bulbs for Ford cars.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Attwood and little daughter spent the week-end with Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Attwood.

John Schwab, of San Jose, was arraigned before Judge Allen G. Norris Tuesday on a speeding charge and was fined $15. Joseph Bidou, of Oakland, was also fined $10 for speeding.

Lorenzo Lopes, of Decoto, was arrested by A. Larson for reckless driving last wek when he narrowly missed crashing into two cars on the highway when trying to back out of a driveway. According to reports, Lopes was alleged to have been drinking, and when questioned by officials he told a story of poverty and distress.

Lopes said that his wife was in an Oakland hospital, where she was undergoing a serious operation, and that he was left alone to take care of a six months old infant. Lopes was supposedly penniless, and for his negligence on the highway, might possibly receive a jail sentence. Final reports of the case have not been made as yet.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kirkish and baby daughter, Annette, visited friends and relatives in Sunnyvale Sunday.

Mrs. Anna G. Goularte Passes Away At Age Eighty-Seven

Mrs. Anna C. Goularte, of Centerville, passed away at her home in Centerville Sunday, September 28, after an illness of three weeks. Hope was held for her recovery to the last, although her age, eighty-seven years, made treatment of any kind practically useless.

Mrs. Goularte was a native of Fial, Azores, and she came to California with her husband and family when she was forty-three years old. Since that time the family has resided in Centerville continuously.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday from Holy Ghost church, Centerville, by the F. F. Botelho establishment. Interment was made in Holy Ghost cemetery, Centerville, where her late husband, Victorino J. Goularte, was buried four years ago.

The deceased is survived by two daughters and a son, all of whom reside in Centerville. They are Mrs. Thomas Rose, Mrs. Anna Oliveira, and Manuel J. Goularte.

Men Escape Injury In Recent Auto Crash Near Pleasanton

Lloyd Gomes, Thomas Hateley Figure In Wreck Near Bonita

Lloyd Gomes, of Pleasanton, and Thomas J. Hateley, of Sacramento and San Jose, narrowly escaped possible serious injury at about eight o'clock Thursday morning when their cars collided on the highway near Bonita, according to Constable Albert E. Vervais, who invesigated the accident.

The Hateley machine was considerably damaged and was towed in by Barry's Garage. The Gomes machine escaped with but slight damage.

According to Gomes, he was entering the highway when his automobile was struck by the car operated by Hateley. Neither driver was completely at fault, according to Constable Vervais. The highway at that point has a row of trees along the side which blocked the vision of both drivers until it was too late to avoid the crash.

Hateley's car struck the rear of the Gomes machine and turned over from the impact. Hateley suffered slight cuts about the hands. Gomes escaped with only a few bruises.

Both machines were said to be fully covered by insurance.

TWO EVENING ART CLASSES MAY BE HELD AT SCHOOL

Interest In Work Continues To Mount, Instructor States

Night school sewing and art classes at Amador Valley High school Pleasanton, are growing in attendance as well as in interest so that the question of a second night during the week was brought up at the class session last Thursday evening. If there are more than ten who wish to have a class on some other night in the week, arrangements may be made, it was said.

Those who are not able to attend the Thursday night class have been requested to inform either Mrs. A. Smith or R. O. Moyor, principal of Amador High School which night would be more convenient. The Thursday night class will continue regardless of the new arrangement.

The attendance at the last class was twenty-one. According to Mrs. Smith, the teacher in charge, the women are highly interested in the work among the lines of basketry, leather tooling, tile painting, crayonex painting and the making of lamp shades.

It is interesting to know that daylight globes have been put in the sewing room to make it easier on the eyes of those who attend the night classes.

Dealers Should Plan Carefully Business Campaign

NOT SO LONG ago we were reading the story of a successful wholesaler in the Middle West who, today, is enjoying a most satisfactory business growth. The story told of the early trials and tribulations of the company in question and the various difficulties which were overcome. It was not easy selling, and many were the ups and downs which the concern experienced. However, advertising plus an idea, backed by strict adherence to a policy of the best quality merchandise at a right price, ultimately set this organization in a most enviable position.

In this specific case we see the irrefutable proof that advertising can and does open to wholesalers and retailers an assured way of establishing themselves in their respective fields, when supported by a willingness to give the public dollar value for a dollar.

The story of the success of this company can be found in many similiar cases. Manufacturers, jobbers and retailers are finding that advertising, when properly applied, is of tremendous assistance in solving sales problems. Jobbers have seen in advertising a means of establishing a "house brand" through the sale of which they are able to make, in many cases, a profit larger than that offered by a similar product. Here again we see that advertising, plus the idea and quality merchandise, opens the way for business concerns to establish themselves with the consumer in a more secure fashion.

A retailer should know that the people of his community are daily buying articles similar to those he carries in stock. He knows that these purchases will be made out of sheer necessity, and that if the people do not buy them from him, they are going to make their purchases elsewhere. Accordingly, he should prepare his advertising as an invitation to this buying group to visit his store and look over his offerings. As an illustration; The haberdasher knows that the annual expenditure in his town of a thousand population is estimated at approximately $54.10 per person per year. In comparing this total expenditure of $54,100 with his own sales, he knows exactly what percentage of this business he is getting, and accordingly, he plans his advertising and sales activity to develop more business for his store.

Niles Theater Will Show Important Pictures

Constance Bennett is starring in "Common Clay," the current all talking and singing screen success at Niles theater tonight. As an added attraction which the well known comedian Harry Langdon, will appear in, there is "The Shrimp."

Bob Steele will be here Saturday in "Oklahoma Cyclone." We have a very strong hunch that anyone liking some real western romance, drama, and pure, undiluted thrills, should see this late talking picture.

Sunday and Monday don't fail to see that screen lover in action. You know who we mean when we talk like this, Ramon Novarro. He will be here in "Call of the Flesh." As a comedy to counteract the influence of the great Novarro we shall have Laurel and Hardy, in a real comedy, no foolin'.

And as a final announcement from your local theater headquarters we tell you that next week, on Wednesday and Thursday nights, there will be with us no other than Milton Sills, who was one of our greatest stars, and he will appear in that star production, "The Sea Wolf."

THE DOUBLE CROSS

by

A. E. THOMAS

W.N.U. SERVICE

Copyright By Dodd, Mead and Company, Inc.

Two persons enter into a conspiracy against a third one. One of the conspirators is not true to the compact. Secretly he informs the third party or takes other action that defeats the conspiracy and throws the burden on his trusting partner Such is the origin of the term, double cross It has had various modifications and applications until it has come to mean almost any underhanded gaining of confidence and subsequent betrayal. Beginning as a slang term, it was too expressive to remain so, and is now a recognized figure of speech. A singularly wicked form of the double cross is the basis for this story. A man proves recreant to the most sincere form of friendship, recreant to the partner who held him in the closest regard, aided him over rough places, paid his debts and persistently excused or overlooked his faults. The most dastardly action was when the false friend came between the true one and the woman he loved

Written by a successful playwright, the story is essentially dramatic, crisp in dialogue and realistic in action. The metropolitan setting is used with fine effect to produce atmosphere and characterization. The absorbing elements of the plot are rendered more fascinating by a vein of subtlety and mystery leading to an unexpected climax near the end. The story might appropriately be termed the triple cross, for the double crosser himself becomes the victim of one whom he trustingly took into his enterprise.

CHAPTER I.—Jim Stanley, wealthy young New York business man, unable to concentrate in his dictation to his desk audiphone, has the machine taken to his home, intending to finish his work there. Rollin Waterman his business partner and closest friend, comes in Both men are avowedly in love with Doris Colby Stanley proposes they toss a coin to determine which of them shall, that evening, first ask her to marry him Waterman wins

CHAPTER II.—Nina Morgan, Waterman's secretary, also his mistress, has overheard his conversation with Stanley and resents Waterman's plans to desert her. Waterman tells her he is practically penniless and must make a rich marriage. He urges Nina to go to Doris and tell her she (Nina) has been wronged—but by Stanley. The girl consents, on Waterman's promise to take care of her

CHAPTER III.—Doris admits to her father her interest in both Stanley and Waterman, and is sure they are both in love with her, but she is unable to make up her mind which to marry.

CHAPTER IV.—Nina goes to Doris with her story, securing a promise that Doris will not reveal the source of her information She convinces Doris of Stanley's duplicity, and leaves her broken hearted, and realizing that it is Stanley she really has loved.

CHAPTER V.—Waterman that evening asks Doris to marry him, and she, believing Stanley unworthy, accepts him. According to the arrangement, Stanley appears, to learn his rival has won. He accepts the situation, and as a wedding present gives his share of the business to Waterman. Next day he arranges with his secretary, Frank Wilson, to take charge of his other business interests. He is going to India.

CHAPTER VI.—Doris, unable to put Stanley completely out of her mind, tells Waterman part of Nina's story. He promises to "try" to find the girl, so that full corroboration can be made. Waterman is deeply in debt to a gambler, Bromfield, and the latter presses for payment. Waterman quiets him by the news of his engagement to the wealthy Doris Colby ble for the securities left in his care he meant exactly what he said. He had no feeling of dishonesty about it. He was using Mr. Weeks' property for his own purposes, it is true, but he would find a way to make good when the time came to do it. He found himself for the moment in one of his tight corners, and he was merely borrowing the C. P. stock to help him out of that corner. He had been in many tight corners before now—but he had always found a way out, and he would find a way out now. Mr. Weeks would not lose anything, and in the meantime would have assisted him, involuntarily to be sure, to escape from this new dilemma.

As a husband Waterman was at first not unsuccessful. He devoted himself to pleasing his wife with an assiduity which, considering his innate selfishness, was extraordinary. But there came a time, some six months after his marriage, when his financial perplexities became so great that he no longer attempted to conceal them from his wife. In fact, with some premeditation, he allowed her to guess them.

"What's the matter, Rollin?" she said to him one night when they had returned to their Park avenue apartment after a dinner party: "You seem awfully down."

"Oh, nothing much," he answered.

"I know better. Anything wrong in business?"

"Well, the fact is, I've got into a deal which looked awfully good and does yet. But it's broadened out so much that I find I haven't quite the capital to swing it. If I had it would be all and more than I hoped, but if I can't get it, I shall have to sacrifice everything that I've put into it."

"How much do you need?"

"Well, forty thousand dollars would see me through."

"Let me do it."

"No, really, I don't want to drag you into my business affairs."

"But I insist. Besides, it's only a temporary loan. It isn't as if I were saying good-by to the money This will see you through, you say, and turn a losing venture into a profitable one. That's simple."

"Well," he said feebly, and her check came to him next day.

What Waterman didn't tell Doris was the fact that the forty thousand dollars was needed to replace the Canadian Pacific stock which belonged to Mr. Weeks who had suddenly, and with entire lack of consideration, demanded the possession of his property. This he received, thanks to Doris' check. Waterman met his responsibility to Weeks, as he had assured Wilson that he would. But his difficulties with reference to the Eastern Oil deal remained as great as before.

This was a fair example of the sort of thing that now became frequent in the Waterman household Waterman was too clever ever to ask his wife for money, but the time came when the technique which he employed in the Weeks matter grew a little threadbare.

It will have been observed that Doris was no fool. She admired her husband. She had an affection for him. If he did not thrill her as she had hoped and expected, she was not unreasonable. She felt, it is true, a vague disappointment, but she brought her common sense to bear. She said to herself that her romantic ideals had perhaps been based too much upon her youthful fancy, that perhaps there was really no such thing outside the world of fairy tales and dreams. At all events she could make a comparative success of her marriage, even if it turned out to be not exactly thrilling, and this she set herself to do.

Nevertheless, she was intelligent and there came a time when with the best will in the world she could no longer shut her eyes to the fact that all was not well with her husband. He did, it is true, manage occasionally to make good some of the amount which she advanced him, but on the whole the balance was heavy on the wrong side of the ledger. His luck, as he called it, ran pretty steadily against him. His nerves played him false with increasing frequency. He found himself drinking in the middle of the day, a thing he had never done before in all his life. Occasionally Doris saw him a little the worse for wear. She thought little of this: she was no prude. She had made up her mind that she would have no wrangling with her husband and in view of his growing irritability, she feared that any reference to this matter would precipitate a quarrel.

Bitterly she regretted the absence of Stanley, for she began to suspect that his had been the influence that had kept her husband straight for years. She believed that if Stanley had not gone away things would have continued well.

"I wonder," she said one evening at dinner, "when Jim's coming back."

Waterman started slightly. Stanley's name had not been mentioned between them for months. "I have no idea," he said.

"I wonder if that confidential man of his—what was his name?"

"Wilson?"

"Yes, Wilson. Do you know his address?"

"No, I don't. Why?"

"I thought I would write and ask him."

"Why? What difference does it make?" He spoke with a touch of asperity.

It was clear that the subject annoyed him, so she abandoned it; but, she did not put the thought from her mind, and the next day she telephoned to Waterman's head clerk for Wilson's address, got it, and wrote him a note. In response, Wilson appeared at the Waterman apartment at three o'clock of the next day.

"Forgive my asking you to come here in the middle of the business day, Mr. Wilson, but I could not very well find another hour free. I am anxious," said Doris, "for certain reasons, to know when Mr Stanley is returning?"

"I am sorry I cannot tell you," replied the secretary.

"Haven't you hard from him?"

"Oh, yes, I got a cable when he landed at Yokohama."

"And that is all?"

"Absolutely all."

"He has buried himself, hasn't he?"

"That, Mrs. Waterman, was his idea, I think." He decided to experiment a bit and added, "I have

Coach Patterson Given Post of Pleasanton Scoutmaster

Boy Scout Troop is Assured Pleasanton As Result of Meeting

PLANS ARE PROGRESSIVE

Scouting in Pleasanton once again takes on the semblance of unified action as a result of a meeting held by the Lions Club in Ratti's Restaurant Tuesday evening when Coach George Patterson, of Alameda Valley High school, accepted the appointment of Ssoutmaster.

For many months scouting has been agitated in Pleasanton, but because of the lack of unified action the project failed to move forward in a proper manner. The Lions as a whole entered into the project with a determination to put scouting on its feet in the city.

To this end a Scout Committee was appointed by the club. The group consists of Thomas Orloff, chairman; A. B. Pickard, T. H. Silver, Andrew Greve and Lloyd H. Rhodes. This committee had charge of the meeting Tuesday.

Coach Patterson, V. Bernard Johnson, R. O. Moyer and Wm. T. Davis, all of whom have been interested in scouting, were guests willing to hear any suggestions of the club this week when the project was threshed out and the ball started rolling when Coach Patterson's acceptance for the post was acquired.

No definite date was set for the first meeting of prospective scouts, this matter being left in the hands of Coach Patterson and the scout committee. It was said, however, that the matter would be taken up immediately and that the first call for scouts would be issued within a very few days.

Other business transacted at the meeting consisted of a report from Lion Greve regarding the erection of signs on Road Two Thousand at the intersection of the Foothill road and at the intersection of the Hopyard road and the Lincoln Highway. He reported the signs as completed according to requirements of the club.

The club ordered the signs some time ago, and left the matter entirely in the hands of Greve.

Thomas Orloff presided in the absence of President Jerome Arendt, who is now in the east on a vacation.

For the information of parents and any prospective Boy Scout, the Lions club stated that any member of the committee would be will ing to hear any suggestions of a scout troop n Pleasanton. which will further the formation of a scout troop here.

TEN PLEASANTON STUDENTS RANK ON HONOR ROLL

Number of Failures Are Smallest In History of School

Honor students at Amador Valley High School for the first marking period numbered ten, according to the announcement made this week by R. O. Moyer, principal. While the number of students on the honor roll is considerable under the usual average, the important point, Moyer stated, is the fact that there is a smaller number of failures this time than in any other marking period in the history if the school.

Those who held honor grades for the first six weeks, ending on September 26, are as follows:

Freshmen: Merle Kamp.

Sophomores: Wilbur Davis, Constance Compagna and Mae Egan.

Juniors: Blair Logue and Grace Reimers.

Seniors: Evelyn Silveira, Ed Vervais, Freda Garibaldi and Anna Miller.

Miss Logue held the highest number of honor points, it was stated, with eighteen.
